Chapter News

Greetings crew,

This year has already seen some good activities. I look forward to what the future holds for us. As I continue to work towards making Full Commander, I am reminded why I am doing this. Quite simply, It's because of you, because of my crew. You've been there when I needed someone to lean on, someone to talk to. I appreciate all that you have done for me and for the ship. I have set a date of Apr. 14th to take my next Command test. (TOS) If all goes well, I will only have one more to take after this. My goal is to be Full Commander in the next few months. Once I accomplish that, it's only a matter of time until we Launch as a Full Chapter. I look forward to that and am excited about what the future holds for us.

Together we can do a great many things. We have a lot of fun activities coming up including White Buffalo Cookbook night, Lan Party gaming, Dinner up a Canyon, CONduit, Camping. Our goal this year is to get out of the house when it's warm and do activities that can be done outside.

The Command Staff and I will be contacting everyone Individually to see how everyone is doing. We look forward to the future. If you need to talk to me or have ANY questions feel free to send me an email or text me anytime at 435-224-0199. I'll get back to you as soon as I can.

Lieutenant Commander Aaron Stevens
 Commanding Officer
 USS White Buffalo NAR – 33247
co@shuttlewhitebuffalo.org

People, the ships and the fleet are moving forward. Our fine CO is advancing steadily towards Commander, both myself and Lt. Kacie Stevens are advancing steadily towards Lt. Commander. Others on our ship are moving closer to their goals. Last month, Lt. Cmdr. Erica Stark achieved the rank of Commander and at the Fleet Meeting on 3/28, she was promoted to the rank of Captain, she is now the Captain of the Ticonderoga instead of the Acting Captain. The USS Atlantis was decommissioned and Captain Charles Corr has been given command of a new ship, the USS Valkyrie because they captain and crew wanted to take their club in a new direction.

The future of the White Buffalo and the Seventh Fleet look really good, goes right along with our moto; 'Together We Stand, Together We Rise'. If anyone on the ship needs help with gaining rank or just wants more information, get with your department head and they will be happy to help you.

Lt. Edward Schneider
 XO SS White Buffalo

Here is Science's Newsletter entry.
 Science has a new Department Head.....

Yes you heard right. The Science department has a new Department Head, Freeman S. Schneider as your new Chief of Science. I intend to organize and catalog the ships library, which is stored at Kacie's apartment. I also intend to find the people in my department, who have the ambition to gain rank so I can assist them. That is all.

DEVOUT FOLLOWERS OF Q

Far out in the uncharted backwaters of the unfashionable end of the western spiral arm of the Galaxy lies a small unregarded yellow sun. Orbiting this at a distance of roughly ninety-two million miles is an utterly insignificant little blue green planet (HHG) -Douglas Adams – And on that little planet Q laughed to himself about the religion dedicated to the Q.

ADDITIONAL “FUN”

Submitted by: Kacie Steven's

I first saw this in seventh grade. It is from one of those “off the wall” calendars. I had a teacher who every day would tape the previous days cartoon on the wall for the students to see. She would keep a weeks’ worth up for us. I asked if I could have it when she took it down and she said yes. I’ve since lost it and have been trying to find it online. I finally found it so without further ado, I give you one of my favorites. - Kacie

STORY SUBMISSION

By: Tatiana Schneider

A little Lakota girl sat on her mother's lap. It was late, and they had just had dinner. The girl was playing with her mother's hair as her mother sang her a song. The little girl looked up at the sky and saw the beautiful full, yellow moon in all its glory. "Mommy, what's the story of the moon?" She asked. Her mother stopped singing and looked at her daughter lovingly.

"Well, child, it all started on Earth about 90 years ago." She said, looking at her child as she started the story. "You see, our ancestors weren't happy with the conditions on earth."

"They were not pleased with all the alien freaks invading their world, taking away more of their ancestral land as the white man did centuries before, and tired of these conditions, Chief White Wing came up with a plan to relocate the tribe. They told the government that they wanted to start a colony on a far off planet, including only Lakota's, so that they would have no one there to challenge their beliefs or ways of life. Surprisingly, the mission was approved, and they were given a J-Class freighter to leave in. Sadly, not all could leave as the freighter could only fit so many. They took all of the people who knew important trades, such as scientists, engineers, and builders, and the rest were left behind. Chief White Wing went with the colonists, as they needed a strong and experienced leader for their new way of life, but White Wing's son had to stay behind, as the people who could not go also needed a strong leader."

"The journey to the new planet was long and perilous. They nearly ran out food and water, and raiders kept trying to attack, thinking that they carried precious trade goods, when in fact, they had none. The ship was boarded many times by these foolish thieves. Eventually, they reached the planet, and landed. It was the middle of the day, and they had to get started on setting up. They worked long and hard that day, but when night fell on the new world, they were finished. They had a grand celebration that night, and as Chief White Wing looked up at the yellow moon in the sky, he thought of the White Buffalo legend, and the good omen it symbolized. He made an announcement that night that the moon in sky would be named 'White Buffalo' in honor of their new life and all the hopes and dreams that they had." The mother finished her story with a smile on her face.

The child was aw-struck at the story, thinking of how the moon represented a good omen for her people at the time. She gave a yawn, and stretched a little, tired after a long day of games. "I think it's bed time for you, child." The mother said, picking up the little girl and carrying her off to bed. The mother tucked her in, singing her a lullaby, and that night, the child had pleasant dreams of White Buffalos dancing on yellow moons.

Thank you Tatiana for your newsletter submission, without it we wouldn't have had a story for this newsletter.
My computer failed to save the one I was working on and it was lost.
Thanks again.
